Philanthropic Privacy Policy

The Ah-Tah-Thi-Ki Museum (“Museum”) values our donors and sponsors and respects the privacy that our donors and sponsors may expect for their personal or corporate information. The Museum appreciates the donations and sponsorships that make it possible for the Museum to provide exceptional programs and services to the public and Native American families. The Museum does not rent or sell the name of our donors or sponsors with any other organization, nor does it engage in telemarketing.

This policy applies to all information received by the Museum, both online and offline, as well as any electronic, written, or oral communications.
